

PRIVATE CLOUD FOR DESIGNERS, ENGINEERS AND ARCHITECTS

DESIGN WITHOUT BOUNDARIES

Today's designers, engineers and architects are tethered to the office because traditional cloud solutions cannot accommodate the compute and collaboration requirements required to process large files. While the cloud and mobility provide the flexibility to operate remotely and on-site, running graphics-intensive CAD applications from the Internet offers an underwhelming user experience. TetherView addresses these challenges.

The leading Infrastructure as a Service solution, TetherView provides a robust virtual computing environment that is ultra-fast and capable of supporting large file types, especially CAD applications such as Autodesk's Revit. TetherView virtual desktops can be accessed via desktops, laptops, tablets and smartphones. Design files and blueprints can be rendered from a smartphone.

TetherView's virtual desktops allow users to collaborate on the same file, empowering design teams to collaborate on projects from multiple locations. Through the platform's advanced features, design builders and architects can rest assured their render farms and files are fully secure and compliant. Furthermore, TetherView's virtual standby desktops can be utilized for business continuity when an outage occurs, ensuring operational uptime.

TetherView's private cloud platform leverages enterprise-grade technology, powered by superior Cisco, VMware, Microsoft, Solid State SAN and Autotask.
